

N. Korea accused of aggression in Panmunjon meeting

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI) — The United States today accused North Korea of a "calculated act of aggression" in shooting down an American spy plane and told the Communists they must "account for the consequences."

The first face-to-face meeting of U.S. and North Korean officials since the plane went down with 31 men aboard Tuesday pitted U.S. Air Force Maj. Gen. James B. Knapp against North Korean Maj. Gen. Ri Choon-Sung at this truce village between the two Koreas.

It ended abruptly 42 minutes after it began. Knapp stalked out of the quonset hut meeting with Ri demanding to know: "What was the belonging of the EC121 aircraft? . . . Why do you not tell us the belonging? . . . Tell us the belonging."

Apparently under orders not to debate the incident, Knapp climbed into his car and headed south, his statement delivered. It said the U.S. Navy EC121 reconnaissance plane was well outside North Korean territory, posed no threat to the Communists and was engaged in a "completely legitimate" operation.

"It was not attacking you or preparing to attack you or supporting an attack on you," Knapp's statement said. "The shooting down of this United States plane was not an act of self-defense. It was a calculated act of aggression."

"This act cannot be justified under international law. On the contrary, the centuries-old tradition of freedom of the seas and the newer principle regarding freedom of the airspace over international waters clearly make your action illegal."

"International law and custom call you to account for the consequences of your violation of these principles."

Knapp referred to the North Koreans' seizure of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo in January of 1968 as evidence of the Communists "aggression." He concluded his statement with:

"We of course expect that you will take appropriate measures to prevent similar incidents in the future. I have nothing more to say at this time."

As Knapp prepared to speak, his aides set up charts showing the location of the four-engine American aircraft when two North Korean MIGs shot it down. Debris found in the Sea of Japan put the crash site about 90 miles off the Communist nation's shore.

Knapp's was the first official U.S. reply to North Korea, which in a communique announcing the downing of the plane on Tuesday had said the aircraft violated its air space.

Simultaneously, the North Korean News Agency was broadcasting an editorial from the nation's Communist party newspaper accusing the United States of "provoking another war of aggression in Korea." The Rodong Shinmoon editorial said North Korea acted in "self defense" in attacking the American plane.

An armada of search planes and ships combed the Sea of Japan for more debris and additional bodies of crewmen from the plane. Two bodies were recovered from the water Thursday — one an officer, the other an enlisted man.

Library costs skyrocketing over success

Costs of operating the new city library have skyrocketed over expenses in the old building on South H Street, but library trustees predict there will be no request for a tax rate increase.

Lompoc Library is financed by a 15 cent city tax and a $2 per capita tab on the valley's estimated 42,500 population.

The tax and the per capita rate will bring the library about $131,750. Additional income of nearly $7,000 will come from book fines, coin operated copy machine, and the library's two pay telephones.

Preliminary estimates indicate the library will need about $151,000 to operate at the present level of hours and salaries, according to Paul Thompson, librarian.

"We've simply been successful," he said following a preliminary budget committee meeting last night. He referred to substantially higher circulation and greater volume of services.

Operation costs have skyrocketed above estimates made last year as the city was preparing to build the new library, according to Thompson, who had not yet assumed his post as librarian.

Grounds maintenance will cost about $5,400 instead of the $600 that had previously been estimated; utilities, including lights, water, gas sewer and refuse will cost about $8,650 compared with the $3,250 spent in the present fiscal year, according to Thompson.

Despite the higher costs of doing business, Thompson said the trustees will come up with a balanced budget. "We may have to tighten our belts, but a request for any more tax money is out of the question," he said.

The trustees are negotiating with the county to acquire all or part of the building fund that is automatically subtracted from the $2 per capita rate. The sum amounts to 10 cents for each of the allotted 42,500 population. Since the library is already built, there is no reason for the county to be laying the funds aside in a building fund, Thompson said.

He also noted that the library had saved some money on the library director's salary during the period between the resignation of Marie Wald and his assumption of the post several months later.

Protected reconnaissance flights ordered by Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today ordered resumption of U.S. reconnaissance flights off the North Korean coast and served notice that "they will be protected."

"When planes of the United States or ships of the United States in intelligence gathering, are in international waters or international air space, they are not fair game," the President told a news conference. "They will not be in the future." He declared, "they will be protected. That is not a threat, but a statement of fact."

He said that further U.S. moves as a result of loss of an unarmed Navy reconnaissance plane, with a crew of 31 to North Korean MIGs "will depend on the circumstances," including North Korea's reaction to the resumption of U.S. aerial reconnaissance.

The propeller-driven EC-121 was shot down by North Korean Jets Monday Washington time.

Nixon said both U.S. and Soviet radar sightings definitely established that the U.S. plane was "approximately 90 miles" at sea at the time of the attack — far beyond the 12 mile limit claimed by North Korea.

"This attack was unprovoked, it was deliberate, it was without warning," Nixon said in a grave voice that seemed husky with emotional tension.

Nixon said the reconnaissance flights were immediately suspended after the EC 121 was lost but that he had ordered such missions resumed. He emphasized the new flights would be made with protection but declined to say what type of protection would be provided.

He stressed that the decision to continue flights with protection was not necessarily the "final" U.S. step. "Our actions in this matter will be determined by what happens in the future," he said.

Two bodies have been recovered from the Sea of Japan since the EC121 went down and no hope is held out for survival of any of the other 29.

Although clearly concerned about the potential gravity of the confrontation with North Korea, Nixon was "somewhat optimistic" about the situation in Vietnam.

"A number of developments clearly beyond the Paris talks have convinced me that the chances for bringing this war to a peaceful conclusion have significantly improved," he said.

While he pledged his administration "to bring men home just as soon as our security will allow," he said troop withdrawal would depend on progress in one or all of three basic areas:

"The training of the South Vietnamese and their ability to handle their own defense; the level of fighting in South Vietnam and whether or not the offensive action of the enemy recedes, and progress in the Paris peace talks."

Glick named Safety Council president

The Lompoc Valley Safety Council elected officers for 1969-70 last night at the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Inducted were Donald Glick, president; Farley Beckett, vice-president; Mrs. George Waudby, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Donald Saladino, publicity and membership chairman. Past president, Lou Rubenstein, will continue to serve as advisor to the board of directors. Assistant fire chief Ronald Boggs was appointed the general chairman of safety committees. Doug Soper, city traffic engineer, will continue to serve as chairman of the traffic committee for the council.

Of primary interest to the council was a report from Messrs. Soper and Ray Robertson, police chief, regarding the status of the railroad signals at the intersection of Laurel and "A" Streets. Soper commented that the signals manufacturers claim the signals are computerized and cannot malfunction.

The council continues to urge members of the community to report any observations of malfunctioning to the Lompoc Police Dept., RE 6-8550 and the city traffic engineer, RE 6-1261 or the Safety Council at RE 5-1120.

Due to citizens complaints, Soper has reportedly asked Southern Pacific Railroad for improvement to help reduce traffic hazards. The Safety Council plans to invite as future speaker, Jay Long, division superintendent of the Southern Pacific.

The next Safety Council meeting is set for May 15.

Czechs warned against protest over ouster of popular Dubcek

PRAGUE (UPI) — Czechoslovakia's big trade unions warned workers today not to demonstrate against the downfall of Alexander Dubcek who was ousted as Party Secretary because the Kremlin balked at his reforms.

The unions have strongly backed Dubcek and former parliamentary president Josef Smrkovsky, who also fell from power, but in a statement today over Prague Radio they told workers not to demonstrate or even to attend protest meetings.

The unspoken fear was that protests and strikes could touch off more anti-Russian rioting in a nation that tasted freedom briefly and then lost it. Such outbreaks could bring stern repressive measures by the estimated 85,000 Russian troops in Czechoslovakia.

Dubcek, whose reforms provoked the Soviet - led invasion of Czechoslovakia in August, was ousted by the Communist Party Central Committee Thursday night. The Central Committee also trimmed the ruling 21-man Presidium to 11 members, most of them pro-Russian conservatives.

Wire news in brief

Farm workers

FRESNO (UPI) — Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., says he plans to introduce legislation giving farm workers the right to bargain collectively while still protecting farmers from "harassment" they have experienced in recent years.

Speaking before members of the Fresno County Farm Bureau Tuesday night, the senator emphasized his legislation would not be of the type which would lump farm workers along with industrial workers under provisions of the National Labor Relations Act.

Lumber prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., today proposed legislation to combat skyrocketing lumber prices by increasing the yield of the national forests.

The bill establishes a "high timber yield fund" to pay for intensive management techniques needed to increase the production of the forests that contain about two-thirds of the nation's softwood resources.

A spokesman for Sparkman's Senate Housing Subcommittee said the measure will help the nation meet its housing goals, which are now threatened by both shortages of lumber and soaring prices.

ROTC downgraded

By United Press International
The ruling body of Harvard University, following a faculty recommendation and demands by student militants, voted today to drastically downgrade the standing of Reserve Officers Training Corps ROTC on campus.

The Harvard Corporation said ROTC would become an extracurricular activity. It reserved judgement on a further faculty recommendation on whether academic credit for ROTC courses and faculty standing for ROTC officers should be withdrawn.

Rate increase

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The State Public Utilities Commission has offered General Telephone Co. a $16.6 millic annual rate increase if it corrects deficiencies in its service.

The company's bid for a $41.9 million increase was denied Thursday, in a plan submitted by commission member Fred P. Morrissey and examiner Robert Barnett.

Measles vaccine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new vaccine against rubella German measles will be recommended for boys and girls, Surgeon General William E. Stewart said today.

"Live rubella virus vaccine is recommended for boys and girls between the age of one year and puberty," he said. "No pregnant women should be given the vaccine. Immunization of adolescent girls and adult women should not be undertaken routinely."

Duels continue

By United Press International
Israel and Egypt fought with artillery across the Suez Canal for the 11th consecutive day today, and captains of the 15 ships trapped in the waterway since the June 1967 war protested that their vessels were being endangered.

Never on Tuesday

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Kenneth F. Finch pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter Thursday for killing his wife's boyfriend.

He said he shot Leo Zuniga for breaking an agreement when he caught him with his wife, Ellen, in a cocktail bar. Finch had agreed Ellen and Zuniga could see each other on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

The shooting took place on Tuesday.

Up to jury now on fate of Sirhan; meet Monday

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The prosecution in the trial of convicted murderer Sirhan B. Sirhan will tell the jury Monday it is up to them to decide what happens to political assassins in the United States.

"We have no precedent in this country for what the appropriate penalty should be for political assassins," chief prosecutor Lynn Compton told newsmen Thursday, minutes after the jury found Sirhan guilty of first degree murder in the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Compton said the prosecution would not ask directly for the death sentence, but would tell the jurors their consciences must be their guides in determining if Sirhan gets life imprisonment or death in San Quentin's gas chamber.

"The jury will have to decide the proper punishment for political assassins," Compton said. "I have said on many occasions that I don't think it is appropriate for me personally to express an opinion as to what the penalty should be."

The panel of seven men and five women reached a first degree murder verdict at 10:47 a.m. Thursday after nearly 17 hours of deliberations.

The jurors interrupted their discussions only once, to return to the courtroom late Wednesday for a clarification of the judge's instructions concerning second degree murder.

The request triggered speculation that at least one juror had held out for the lesser charge.

Sirhan took the verdict stoically, staring straight ahead, but his attorneys said he was disappointed.

Thursday afternoon, when the defense appeared before Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker to present three motions concerning the penalty phase of the trial, Sirhan seemed in good spirits, laughing and whispering to attorney Russell Parsons.

He exclaimed, "Beautiful, sir," when Chief Defense lawyer Grant B. Cooper said Sirhan wanted experts on the Arab-Israeli conflict to corroborate the tales of terror he and his mother told on the witness stand after their lives in Old Jerusalem before them came to the United States.

Mouse River rises; Mississippi tests dikes with near-record crest

By United Press International
With parts of Minot, N.D., a ghost town, the winding Mouse River rose rapidly today.

The Mississippi River turned its strength to testing dikes in Minnesota and Wisconsin with a near-record crest. Its rising waters caused new evacuations in Iowa.

The Red River of the North, which flows into Canada, flooded all along its course in Minnesota and North Dakota—eight miles wide in some places.

The next few days were to be hard ones for residents of areas fighting flooding as melted winter snows gorged rivers, driving about 23,700 persons from their homes. North Dakota had seen 15,000 homeless, South Dakota 4,000, Minnesota 3,100 and Wisconsin and Iowa 800 each.

Most of the Iowa and South Dakota flood refugees had returned to their homes, but the rising Mississippi caused new move-outs in northern Iowa. Downstream communities in Iowa and Illinois continued strengthening dikes in preparation for the big river's crest.

At Minot, 12,000 persons had left their homes—Minot's population is 34,000—and the Army Corps of Engineers said the Mouse River flooding could cause $35 million damage.

Only last week the river caused $3.5 million damage when it peaked at 17 feet, it was the city's worst flood since 1904. By early today, the Mouse was at 18.3 feet—and officials said it could hit 20 feet today. Floodstage is 12 feet.

The peak was expected to hold three days, rise another foot Thursday and crest again from another wave of high water moving southward. The river winds 13 miles through Minot, which is four miles wide.

White cloths fluttered from the front doors of thousands of Minot homes, signalling surrender to the roaring Mouse. Nobody, nothing, moved through whole areas. House windows were bare of drapes and completely empty rooms were visible from the streets.

The Mississippi River was cresting today at Lake City, Minn., Wabasha, Minn., and Alma, Wis., and was to crest Saturday at Winona, Minn., and La Crosse, Wis.

The Mississippi fell slowly Thursday at St. Paul, Minn., but 100 billion gallons of water a day still moved past the town and the river was not expected to be back beneath flood stage until May 1.

Workers piled more sandbags on a 17-mile long dike between Winona and Minnesota City as pumps continually poured back into the river water that seeped through the dike. Wabasha was protected by dikes around both ends of the downtown section and the only damage Thursday was to a resort section on the north edge of town.

Fifteen inmates of the Stillwater State Prison joined hundreds of college and high school students and national guardsmen to help build a 1,100-foot dike to protect 40 riverside homes at St. Croix Beach, Minn., from the rising St. Croix River.

"They asked to go," warden Jack Young said, "it's a chance for them to make a contribution."

American spokesmen said casualties from the 55th night of nationwide Communist shellings were light.

The B52s, in flights of five to 12 planes, dumped some of their bombs near Dau Tieng, an allied camp northwest of Saigon.

UPI correspondent Nat Gibson said the ground battle five miles from Dau Tieng saw American soldiers of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment charge the bamboo thicket behind tanks and armored personnel carriers. Another six Reds were captured. One American was killed and six wounded.

Five of the raids zeroed in on targets from 34 to 38 miles northwest of Saigon where American troops Thursday killed 20 guerrillas who attacked a U.S. armored column from thickets. The Reds in that area pose a threat to Saigon.

B-52 bombers in massive raid on Red bivouacs

By WALTER WHITEHEAD
SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B52 bombers in their heaviest raids in two weeks today hammered Communist bivouacs on approach routes to South Vietnam's two largest cities. An American battlefield commander said the Communists were now only fighting a headline war.

"I believe the enemy no longer expects a military victory," said Maj. Gen. Ormond R. Simpson, commander of the 1st Marine Division. "He is now fighting a political war for headlines. And he apparently thinks he can maintain this level of violence."

Military spokesmen said the high altitude jet bombers flew seven missions Thursday night and today, pounding Communist troop concentrations, base camps, bunker complexes, weapons positions and staging areas with at least 600 tons of explosives in two parts of the country.

Lompoc cameramen back from Vietnam 'mission'

Two civilian motion picture cameramen of the 1369th Photographic Squadron have recently returned from the Republic of South Vietnam where they helped film "The Wings of Freedom," a documentary about the RVN Air Force.

James A. Morr, 1333 West Willow, Lompoc, and John Hartzell, 1228 N. Orchid, Lompoc, were part of a eight-man camera crew which spent 75 days in the combat zone filming the activities of the Vietnamese airmen.

Using two Vietnamese officers as interpreters, Morr and Hartzell worked with the Vietnamese, flying with them on bombing and strafing raids, paratroop drops and helicopter assaults.

During their two and a half months overseas, they visited six South Vietnamese air bases as well as numerous remote locations throughout the country. On several occasions they were under enemy rocket and mortar attack.

Altogether, the crew exposed over 27,000 feet of sound synchronized 16mm color film.

"Wings of Freedom" will be produced in two versions; one in English narration for United

The other two raids were directed against Communist positions in Quang Ngai Province, 25 and 26 miles southeast of Da Nang, where Simpson's men operate.

It was the largest number of B52 raids flown over South Vietnam since April 2 when 10 missions were flown.

Military communiques reported that Allied troops killed 148 Communist soldiers in eight fights Thursday and said that Red gunners kept up their rocket and mortar attacks with 20 shellings of bases in South Vietnam Thursday night and early today.

American spokesmen said casualties from the 55th night of nationwide Communist shellings were light.

JM reports earnings for quarter

Sales and earnings of Johnson-Manville Corporation for the first quarter of 1969 showed improvement over the same period last year, D.B. Burnett, President, reported today.

Sales for the quarter amounted to $122,662,000 compared with $113,581,000 for the same period in 1968.

Earnings for the first quarter amounted to $7,293,000 or 43 cents per share of common stock, compared with $6,753,000 or 40 cents per share in 1968. Per share earnings reflect the adjustment for a 2-for-1 stock split effective March 13, 1969.

Sales and earnings for the first quarter of 1968 have been restated to reflect the year-end changes in depreciation methods and the acquisition of Crown Tuft Carpet, Inc. during 1968.

"The higher level of sales and earnings resulted from firmer selling prices and continued strength in most segments of the construction industry," Mr. Burnett said.

Property tax relief deadline may be extended upon Reagan's request

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The legislature appeared certain today to heed Gov. Ronald Reagan's request to extend the deadline for taxpayers to get the property tax relief they voted for themselves in November.

The governor said in a special message to the legislature Thursday the applications had been falling behind expectations.

"The taxpayers of this state are entitled to the refunds which were made available to them and which they themselves approved last November," Reagan said.

"With your help, we can all assure that they are given every possible opportunity to claim those benefits, which are rightfully theirs and which they should take advantage of."

Shortly before Reagan's special message was made public, Assemblyman George Milias, R-Gilroy, introduced a bill to give the taxpayers until May 30 to apply for their rebates. The original deadline was last Tuesday.

Under a law passed by the 1968 legislature and approved by the voters last November, homeowners are eligible for a special $70 property tax refund this year.

In future years, they will be eligible for a yearly $750 exemption on the assessed value of their homes.

This exemption does not extend to veterans who now get a $1,000 exemption.

Reagan's major tax reform plan, which he has proposed for the 1969 legislature, includes provision for extending the homeowner exemption to $1,000 and eliminating the veterans exemption entirely.

The governor said "many thousands" of persons had failed to file their applications for exemption in time to meet the April 15 deadline.

He said Los Angeles County Assessor Philip Watson had advised him that the state's most populous county had received less than 1 million of the more than 1,600,000 forms mailed to taxpayers for the tax relief rebate.

The voters approved the exemption by a vote of 3,500,368 to 3,058,978 in the November general election after the 1968 legislature adopted it as an answer to Proposition 9, which would have limited property taxes to 1 per cent of a home's value. That proposition was defeated overwhelmingly.

Milias got special permission of the Assembly to introduce the bill after the April 8 deadline for unrestricted introduction of measures.

The Assembly scheduled a rare Friday session in an attempt to clean up its work. The Senate, however, was in its usual three-day weekend recess.

100 turn out for Chess Club

More than 100 chess players and their friends turned out last night at Lompoc Library to see Mayor Robert D. MacClure make the opening moves to launch Lompoc Valley Chess Club.

MacClure, a chess player himself, noted the number of young people in the audience and said that contrary to popular conception most of the honors had gone to the young.

He cited Samuel Reshevsky, who won the national title at eight years of age, and the current American star, Bobby Fischer, who won the national title at 14, and international honors a year later.

Other speakers were Supervisor Francis H. Beattie, Ronald Fick, representing the library board, Paul Thompson, librarian, Mrs. Kenneth L. Adam, president of the Lompoc Record Publications, Vaughn Proctor, acting chairman of the chess club.

Eleanor Lefkowitz served as mistress of ceremonies, substituting for her planning commissioner husband, Sol Lefkowitz.

Mrs. Lefkowitz also introduced Councilwoman and Mayor Pro Tem Charlotte Benton, Earl Calvert, president of Lompoc Valley Historical Society, Eugene Stevens, managing editor of Lompoc Record and Ralph Patey, manager of Lompoc Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The club will meet again next Thursday in the library at 7 p.m., and at the same hour on each of the following four Thursdays, according to Proctor.

In other action, the club announced that Vern Copeland, city planning commissioner and his wife, Mary would form a Friends of Lompoc Valley Chess Club, as a fund raising adjunct of the chess club.

Sirhan's father expected more

By ELIAV SIMON
TAIBEH, Israeli-occupied Jordan (UPI)—Sirhan B. Sirhan's father said today he "expected more from American democracy" than the guilty verdict his son received and said Arabs would kill more U.S. leaders because of it.

The elder Sirhan learned of the verdict over a Voice of America broadcast. "I expected more from American democracy than this," Sirhan, an olive grower, said.

Callahan changes mind on retiring

Those who had been waiting for Supervisor Joe J. Callahan to retire next year so they could contend for his $10,000 a year position learned today they will have to wait longer for him to give up his post.

Callahan a year ago had said he didn't plan to seek a new four-year term in 1970.

Today, he said he had reconsidered, at the urging of certain friends. He now intends if his health continues good, to seek a fourth term.

A former veteran Santa Barbara city council member, Callahan is a good vote-getter and would be the favorite in any campaign for the Second District position, Courthouse circles feel.

That means anyone aspiring to a worth while Santa Barbara political post next year had better plan to by-pass the Second District supervisorial election.

Dear Abby Beard not just for the hippies

DEAR ABBY: Will you please say a few kind words in your column for the thousands of respectable, mature men who wear beards?

I, myself, have a neatly trimmed beard, over which some of my friends have expressed much envy. They would like to grow one, but say their employers won't allow it. While my employer tolerates MY beard, he hasn't forbidden me to wear one.

I am sick and tired of the snide remarks one hears from those who associate beards with hippies, yuppies, beatniks, and subversive characters.

It takes time and effort and manliness to grow a beard, and not every male is endowed by nature with enough hair to develop a presentable looking one.

Perhaps if some prominent figure would grow a beard, he'd get the ball rolling. President Nixon would be a natural! He has a five o'clock shadow at noon, and he'd only be following the example set by another great Republican leader, Abraham Lincoln!

Come on, Abby, give us bearded ones a break.

KELLY: You rattled the right cage! I happen to appreciate clean, beautifully sculptured, well-kept beards. In fact, the men who have contributed most to my happiness were bearded. Moses, Freud, my grandfather, Uncle Sam, Santa Claus — and my husband!

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the man who got jealous because his elderly wife was kissed by her elderly cousin while preparing breakfast (both in their night clothes) prompts me to write about my problem.

We recently rented a furnished room to a divorced man in his mid-forties. I have learned that my wife, who is attractive, friendly and out-going, has invited this man to have coffee with her in the morning. Because of the early hour, she is in her housecoat and he is in his bathrobe.

The other night, before retiring, I heard him call to her, "Goodnight, SWEETHEART."

My wife insists that this was only a harmless gesture of friendship, and I am jealous over nothing. Far as I know she has been loyal for 28 years. What do you think?

LONG ISLANDER

DEAR ISLANDER: I think if your wife were actually this man's "sweetheart," he'd be careful what he called her while you were around. But tell your wife to DRESS up when she GETS up, or cut out the coffee-klatches with the roomer, as rumors DO fly.

DEAR ABBY: My mother didn't write a "Dear John" letter to my boyfriend, but I wish she had. I am now "John's wife." I left a comfortable home and a mother and father who loved me to get married at 16.

I am 18 now, broke and unhappy. I live in a hole in the wall with no conveniences, no new clothes, and no car to drive.

I agree with that mother who wrote and asked John to wait until he could offer her daughter something better before proposing marriage.

If I could do it over again, I wouldn't have married so young. I would have waited until we both worked and saved a while. It's too late now because I'm pregnant.

Please, Dear Abby, tell girls who think they are in love to wait for a man who thinks enough of them to provide them with a decent future. Love DOES fly out the window when poverty comes in the door.

He said he loved me, but I didn't even get a valentine.

SAD FROM SEATTLE

DEAR SAD: Your letter said it better than I. Thanks for the benefit of your experience. Perhaps other 16-year-olds will brush the star-dust out of their eyes and view the realities of life more clearly.

DEAR ABBY: Is a FIFTH COUSIN far enough away for marriage?

ELOISE

DEAR ELOISE: Genetically speaking, yes.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a formal wedding. Immediately following the ceremony, the photographer (a professional, hired for the occasion) said, "All right, I want a picture of the wedding party."

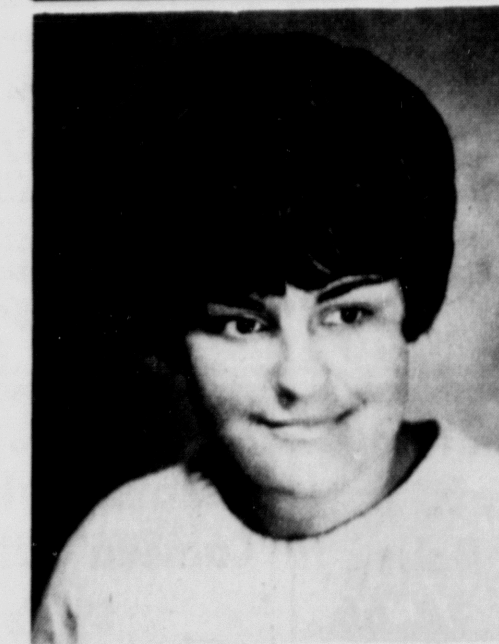

The pianist and soloist started to join the group. The photographer said, "Sorry, but you two are not in the wedding party."

The pianist appeared somewhat miffed, but sat down. The soloist ignored the photographer and got into the picture anyway. My question: Are the musicians part of the wedding party?

NOSY

DEAR NOSY: Not in MY book (Or Amy's, either.)

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Rebekahs observe obligation night

In black, gold and white were the large Bible replicas featured by Rebekah Lodge in Obligation Night ceremonies Tuesday. Lodge emblems and baskets of pink roses decorated the IOOF Hall.

Making her official visit was Mrs. Curtis Zierman of Santa Maria, district 40 deputy president. Accompanying her was Mrs. Charles Brisco, district marshal.

In a ceremony conducted by Mrs. Harold Edman, local vice grand, each member renewed obligations of the lodge.

Otis and Frank Vermillion, Les Fish, Lester Finnicum, Leland Staffanson, Athleen Walton, Edward Wallace and the Misses Tyra and Renee Harris, and from Pleasant Hills, Miss Cindy Matthews.

Background for the receiving line was an archway flanked by arrangements of white lilac blooms. Fresh floral arrangements decorated the piano, the stage, and each end of the cake table. A single pink rose in a crystal bud vase centered each of the tables for guests.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Edens wore a light pink sheath with white lace trim and corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a deep pink lace sheath and pink carnation corsage.

A short program was presented with Otis Vermillion as master of ceremonies. "The Lord's Prayer" was the solo selection of Mrs. Lyle Starcher. "True Love" and "Hawaiian Wedding Song" were selections requested by the bridal couple, with Lynn and Laura Rasmussen singing.

Joe Stegman to represent Lompoc at famed Boys' State in capital

Lompoc High School recently chose Joe Stegman to represent Lompoc at Boys State.

Boys State will be held once again at the Sacramento Fair Grounds where over 800 boys from all over California will meet to learn about California government. They will learn about local, state and national seats of California government.

The conference will last for one week. At the end of the week elections are held on each level of government. (Local, state and national). The highest is the Governor's position, who will then go on to Boys National held in Washington and is similar to Boys State.

Each year Lompoc high sends a junior boy to Boys State. He is chosen directly by the faculty. The procedure was slightly different this year, with each teacher submitting a name to be considered. The name submitted the most was selected. Last year it was narrowed down to five candidates and the faculty voted on the five.

Last year's representative to Boys State was Tony Hewes, now a Senior at LHS. Tony found the experience "rewarding and worthwhile."

Lompoc high elections slated next Tuesday

Lompoc high will be holding its annual elections next Tuesday.

If elected any decisions would always have the student body in mind."

Gary Overman had this to say concerning his candidacy for ASB president, "If I'm elected I will try to represent the student the best that I can, I will try to be the voice of the ASB. I won't be afraid to say what I think the ASB wants or what I feel is right."

The other candidates for this office were not available to give comment.

Cabrillo seniors hold class meet; discuss last two weeks of school

The Senior Class of Cabrillo High School held their second class meeting of the year last Tuesday in the cafeteria. The main topic of discussion was the last two weeks of school for the graduating class.

The first issue that was discussed was that of the Senior Enrichment Day. Class President Dallas Britton announced that it is to be held at the nearby ranch whose facilities include softball diamonds, barbecue pits, volleyball courts, dancing pavilions, and horseback riding areas.

By a vote of the senior class last week, it was decided that a barbecue chicken dinner will be served to the seniors free of charge. Soft drinks will be provided, but other than that, the seniors will have to bring their own food and drink. There will be a charge of one dollar at the entrance for the seniors to cover the charge for the use of the facilities.

Another topic discussed by the class was the senior trip to Disneyland. Administrator Tom Love announced that there are a limited number of seats left on the Greyhound bus that will be taking seniors who have reserved seats. All those seniors not taking the chartered buses will ride the school bus. No senior will be allowed to drive his own car as this is a school activity. All boys will be expected to wear a coat and a tie, all girls should wear some kind of party dress.

Britton, who is serving his second year as class president, also mentioned that the senior class song is "The Sounds of Silence."

REFLECTIONS—The junior escorts for the LHS graduation ceremonies alter their clothes in preparation for the big day.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,
On March 25, 1969, the Senior Class of Lompoc Senior High School held its Senior Breakfast. All who participated enjoyed an excellent meal prepared by the administration and served by the faculty of our school. The seniors demonstrated how real high school students should act: courteous, polite, neat, in short they conducted themselves in an excellent manner. However, Lompoc High's Senior Breakfast was not covered by pictures or even a story as the Cabrillo Senior Breakfast was. Could it be that even the Teen Page has fallen like the rest of the news media to covering only "violence" so that it will be read? Anyone who read your article about Cabrillo's Breakfast will think that "all" seniors are equivalent to animals who think only of themselves.

The majority of high school seniors are human beings that can show and demand respect. But unfortunately, this kind of a story doesn't sell newspapers. How surprised and proud would Lompoc's adults be if only they were given the chance to read about something constructive our local teams have done!

Sincerely,
Don Woodfin
Senior Class President

EDITORS NOTE:

There have been misunderstandings about the Cabrillo Senior Breakfast, and perhaps now is the time to clear some of them up. The story about the breakfast was an attempt to be humorous and relaxed; as was the senior breakfast itself. Obviously there were no casualties from food poisoning or other food diseases. Although the food wasn't the best in the world, it really was edible.

As for the coverage, there are explanations to be made. There was no press release given or mailed to the Teen Page and there has been in the past, so we had no means of knowing about the Lompoc breakfast. Although the teen page does make every attempt to cover all stories and get every possible picture, the people giving the event must make some effort to have it publicized.

And there is obviously a difference between the purpose of the Lompoc Senior Breakfast and the Cabrillo Senior Breakfast. While it seems that the Lompoc breakfast is put on purely for the enjoyment of the food, the Cabrillo breakfast had a much different purpose. We feel that at Cabrillo the role of teacher and student were reversed for an hour.

The mighty senior got to tell the faculty and administrative cooks just how to prepare his food. For one class period, it truly seemed that four years of high school were not for nothing and that being a senior did indeed have its advantages.

Dear Editor,

I would like to file a complaint against the Lompoc Record Teen Page. Recently Lompoc cheerleaders returned from state-wide competition at El Monte with a 3rd place. This is our big competition of the year and we were extremely proud of our trophy. The coverage? We received 1-3 size headlines as the Cabrillo Chess Club's up-coming competition. I am thoroughly disgusted and feel that you owe each of us an apology. I hope in the future you will keep your partiality a little less obvious.

Sincerely,

Terry Green
Lompoc Hi cheerleader
P.S. You didn't even mention our names!

EDITORS NOTE:

Although the teen page treatment of the Lompoc cheerleaders does seem to be unfair there is a reason and an explanation. First, at the publication of the April 11 edition of the teen page, the competition had already been over for a good ten days. Since the teen page didn't come out during the Easter Holidays, there was no feasible way for the teen page to publicize the event. The headline was smaller than the Chess headline because the cheerleader story was a mere two lines long, the chess story was over six inches long. We could have stretched the cheerleader story out to make it longer by including the name of the bus driver who took you to the competition, and mentioned what you had for lunch, but we feel that this would not serve the best interests of our readers; only the LHS cheerleaders.

We do apologize for not including your names in the story; this was our oversight and we do regret it.

Battle of Bands scheduled tonight

Replacing the annual Senior Concert, the class of '69 will present a Battle of the Bands tonight from 8 until 11:30 in the cafeteria.

The bands will battle for a $100 first place with an option to play at the Senior Luau and a $75 second place. The bands playing will be the Orange Lens, Kalliope, and Rythum Method, and the Ellysian Fields from Santa Maria and Santa Barbara. The people attending the dance will vote for the best band.

Originally the Senior Class planned to have the "Sweetwater" come but they cancelled out at the last minute. The event will be a concert-dance instead. "So you can do what ever you want," explained Senior Class President Don Woodfin.

The concession stand will be opened. Tickets will go on sale at the Lompoc Music Box. Prices will be $1 if you buy before and $1.50 if you wait and buy them at the door.

Cabrillo Booster Club to stage rock concert

The Cabrillo Booster Club will present Cabrillo's first rock concert on April 25, 1969. The concert is open to the public and will feature STEAM, a group whose repertoire ranges from hard rock to country and western, and includes lounge, soul and pop sounds. They have performed from coast to coast, appearing in such well known places as the Arthur Lounge in New York City.

Starring in the concert is Tommy Roe and his group. Tommy is easily one of the most handsome entertainers in the business. Tall and well built, with brown hair, blue eyes and a dazzling smile, Tommy Roe is an extraordinary young man by anyone's standards. Tommy writes most of his own songs and has far too many hits to list. A small example would include "Everybody", "Party Girl", "Sweet Pea", "It's Now Winter's Day", and "Dizzy" which he wrote with Freddie Weller of Paul Revere and the Raiders. He has performed all over the United States and Canada, and is equally at home in Europe, where he has toured several times. He has done network TV in various countries, including a stint as a regular on Dick Clark's "Where the Action Is". As any teenager will declare, Tommy Roe's records are some of the most popular today.

Because of the overwhelming interest already shown in the concert, there will be two complete shows to accommodate as many people as possible. One show will start at 7:30 p.m., and the late show will start at 9:30 p.m. Tickets are currently on sale at Cabrillo High School, Lompoc Music Box, at 1006 N. H St., Lompoc, and Sousa Music and Television at 310 S. Broadway, Santa Maria, on a first come basis. The prices are $3.00 per ticket. Proceeds will be used by the Booster Club to finance such items for the Cabrillo School as athletic banquets and an athletic storage shed, jackets for the Madrigal Singers, financial assistance for trips for the Conquistadore Marching Band and debate teams, as well as the summer camp fees for the Song Leaders, Cheer Leaders and Drum Majors.

The Booster Club has gone to great expense to bring in top talent for this concert and it promises to be one of the outstanding events of the year.

Ex-castoff Bill Stoneman hurls no-hitter over Phils for Expos

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

Billy Stoneman may have found the formula for instant growth-it's called no-hitter.

Stoneman, labeled "too short" to be a major league starting pitcher, turned the tables on the experts Thursday night when he pitched the first no-hitter of the 1969 season as the Montreal Expos ripped the Philadelphia Phils, 7-0.

He made his third start of the season and only the fifth of his career—a memorable one by becoming the first pitcher for an expansion team to compile a no-hitter in his team's maiden season.

Stoneman said that he was "very happy to win it for Gene's (Mauch) homecoming. Mauch, the Montreal manager fired as boss of the Phils a year ago, was making his first appearance at Philadelphia's Connie Mack Stadium since being ousted.

Staub drove in three runs and scored two others with three doubles and a home run in five at-bats besides making a knee-high, one-handed catch of Tony Taylor's looping liner in the second inning. In all, the Phils managed only six balls out of the infield against Stoneman, who had pitched only one complete game in the majors prior to Thursday night.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago blanked St. Louis, 3-0, Atlanta ripped Houston, 9-3, San Francisco edged San Diego, 5-4 and Pittsburgh shut out New York, 3-0 in the only games scheduled.

In American League play, Washington beat New York, 5-2, after losing the doubleheader opener, 7-3, Baltimore stunned Boston, 9-5, and Detroit edged Cleveland, 7-6, in the only scheduled games.

Bill Hands and Phil Regan combined for a four-hitter as the Cubs blanked St. Louis for the second straight night.

The victory was the Cubs' ninth in 10 games this season and dropped the Cards to 4-6.

Sonny Jackson drove in three runs—two with an inside-the-park homer—to power Atlanta over the Astros.

Jackson drove in the Braves' first run in a three-run third inning on a fielder's choice and followed a single by Mike Lum, a sacrifice and a double by Felix Millan with his homer past center fielder Norm Miller in the fourth.

Pat Jarvis, who also knocked in a pair of runs, was the winning pitcher despite allowing 11 hits.

Dick Dietz singled and Jim Davenport doubled to highlight a three-run sixth-inning rally that carried Juan Marichal and the Giants over the Padres. The Padres jumped off to a 3-0 lead after two innings but the Giants bounced back with two in the fourth on back-to-back solo homers by Bobby Bonds and Willie McCovey before their rally in the sixth.

Rookie Al Oliver knocked in three runs with his first major league homer and Jim Bunning and Ron Kline teamed for a three-hitter to lead the Pirates over the Mets. Oliver's homer, off reliever Cal Koonce, followed walks to Richie Hebner and Willie Stargell.

Defending champs lead opening battle

Defending champions Jack Geasland and Wayne Roughen survived the first round challenge issued by the team of Warren Bottriff-Harry Morris for a 1-up victory in the Ken Adam partners best ball tournament at the Village Country Club.

The victory in second flight action sends the two victors into a match with Clint Inglee-John Vass this week in the semifinals of flight play.

Matches will continue through the month of April with flight winners to meet in intraflight play with the overall handicap match play championship to be decided in a playoff in May.

Second round pairings are to be played off by April 25, according to country club course professional John Drips with third round matches slated for the period of April 26 to May 2.

Boston blanks Montreal

By United Press International

Goalie Gerry Cheevers has regained his reputation as an "untouchable" in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Cheevers posted two shutouts over Toronto in the Eastern Division semifinals and went on to whitewash Montreal, 5-0, Thursday night in an Eastern finals game to prevent the makings of a Canadian rout.

Phil Esposito saluted Cheevers' performance with a five point effort on two goals and three assists as Boston cut Montreal's lead to 2-1 in the National Hockey League post-season playoffs. Both Canadian victories were achieved in overtime.

St. Louis, the western division champion, gained a two-game lead over Los Angeles in their playoff series with a second straight victory over the Kings, 3-2.

Cheevers was classy with the stick and pads as he turned away 34 Montreal shots. Phil Esposito's first goal at 3:37 of the opening period was all the Boston netminder needed. Eddie Westfall beat Gump Worsley at 16:35 of the second period and the Bruins went on a three-goal spree in the final period as Esposito scored his eighth goal of the 1969 playoffs at 3:37. Ron Murphy made it 4-0 at 10:07 and Ken Hodge tallied Boston's final goal 16 seconds later.

The series continues at Boston Sunday afternoon and a fifth game will be played in Montreal Tuesday, April 22. If additional games are needed they'll be held in Boston April 24 and Montreal April 26.

St. Louis moves to Los Angeles for Saturday and Sunday games. The teams then alternate home ice, if other games are necessary, on April 22, 24 and 27.

Player, the forthright South African, had no complaints. Regarding the rough, he said, "That's the way golf should be played."

Lompoc spikers power past host Cabrillo

BY JIM HIGGINS
Prep Writer

Performing as expected, the Lompoc Braves track squad notched its fourth league nod to completely desimate the host Cabrillo team, 106-12, yesterday in a SBCL dual track meet.

Lompoc captured 13 of 14 varsity events, including sweeping six events.

The lone Conquistador win came in the pole vault with vaulting ace Barry Karsokas clearing 12-6 to take a nod over Lompoc's John Chandler.

Dropping everyone to their normal weight classifications, Cabrillo's spikers entered varsity competition with only ten competitors and no hope of winning.

Lompoc displayed its usual dominance from the very onset of the meet. The Braves opened the meet with a sweep in the varsity 120 yard high hurdles. Charley Jackson led that sweep with his 15.5 clocking with Randy Diboll (16.3) and Albert Beltran (16.9) rounding out the finish.

Others leading the Braves in sweeps were Dave Robichaud in the shot (53-2 1/4), Dale Bricker in the 100 and 220 (10.2 and 23.5), Darrell Longley in the long jump (20-2) and Jose Guerrero in the two-mile (10:34.8).

It was in the lower divisions that the Conquistadores found their mark as they downed the Braves 79-16 in the Bee Weight meet and 63-23 in the Cee Weight battle.

Doug Maple and Paul Duell led the Hill effort in the Bees with Maple being the only tripe winner of the day, winning the long jump (17-4 1/2), the shot put (47-3) and the 120 yard low hurdles (14-8). Duell won both the 100 (10.6) and the 220 yard dash (24.2). Senior Don Ramirez established a new Cabrillo school record in the 660 yard dash with a winning time of 1:25.4.

In the Cee Weight meet, Larry Cornejo and Elkanah Dunbar paced the Conquistadores with Cornejo winning the long jump (18-5 1/4) and the 120 yard low hurdles (15.0). Dunbar won the Cee 100 and 180 yard dashes with times of 10.9 and 19.6.

Yesterday's meet marked the final round of league dual meet action with all SBCL teams converging upon Huyck Stadium Saturday, Apr. 26, for the annual league finals in varsity, Class B and Class C divisions.

In other league action yesterday, San Marcos defeated Santa Maria, 78 1/2 - 39 1/2 while Dos Pueblos won the mile relay to take a 61-57 win over Righetti despite times of 9.8 and 22.5 in the 100 and 220 yard dashes by Righetti sprinter Ralph Dickson.

HITTERS FACE COMEBACK—These four faces will haunt major league pitchers as hitters attempt a comeback after last season's batting drought. From left are American League home run king, Frank Howard of Washington, batting champion Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, National League batting champ Pete Rose of Cincinnati and home run leader Willie McCovey of San Francisco.

West, Wilt put Lakers ahead, 3-1

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Atlanta Hawks now face an improbable, if not impossible, task in their playoff with the Los Angeles Lakers for the National Basketball Association's Western Division championship.

The Hawks are down 1-3 in the best-of-seven series and they meet the Lakers in Los Angeles Sunday afternoon in the fifth game. Atlanta dropped the first two games on the Lakers home court.

The Hawks desperately needed a victory Thursday night to keep from having their backs to the wall, but Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West frustrated them with a 100-85 victory.

Atlanta had fallen behind at the start, grabbed a lead at the half and then trailed by four points, 67-63, after three quarters. Then Atlanta took a three-point lead early in the final period and appeared on its way to another Hawks' closing surge.

But West and Chamberlain combined to outscore the Hawks 12-0 within the next few minutes and the Lakers had a nine-point margin. A full-court press by the Hawks closed the gap to four points, but West tossed in five points to assure the Lakers the victory.

The loss was Atlanta's first on its home court in 12 games. Chamberlain, who had been soundly defeated in Atlanta's Monday night win, scored 25 points and West had 22.

Lotz leads champions in TofC after first round

By JOEST, AMANT
CARLSBAD, Calif. (UPI)—Thirty thousand bucks is more than Dick Lotz made all last year as a golf pro but he's got a line on that kind of dough all in one lump sum today.

Anything can happen—like a big earthquake—before Sunday when the $150,000, 72-hole Tournament of Champions ends but Lotz, 26, a stocky, handsome 26-year-old from Hayward, Calif., is champion of champions pro tem going into the second round.

Some of the golfers complained about the long and tenacious grass in the rough on the par 36-36-72 La Costa Country Club course in Thursday's first round but not Lotz.

He shot a five-under-par 67 for a two-stroke lead over such golfing VIPs as Arnold Palmer, Dave Stockton, Tom Weiskopf, Julius Boros and Gary Player, all at 69.

Chances are against Lotz but for the moment he can dream about that $30,000 first prize. For that matter, what's wrong with second prize of $17,000 or third prize of $10,000? Last year Lotz struggled to collect $23,000 80th on the PGA money list.

He sneaked into this tournament through the back door by winning the Alameda County Open, a second-rate event set up by the PGA in competition with the Los Angeles Open because of last year's player dispute.

It doesn't matter now how he got in. He's not complaining about the weather, the condition of the course or even the spark plugs on his car.

"Shooting 67, I don't complain about anything," he said happily.

George Archer, the Masters champion, shot a double bogey six on the first hole when he pushed his tee shot into the right rough. He tried to lash the ball out onto the fairway but it ended up in the rough on the other side. Then he was in a trap with his third shot, hit a good chip but two-putted from eight feet.

He was smiling, however, and came out of the round with a one-under-par 71. At the same figure were Steve Reid a newcomer to this tournament who got in by winning the Azalea Open; defending champion Don January, and Billy Casper, top money winner last year.

Player, the forthright South African, had no complaints. Regarding the rough, he said, "That's the way golf should be played."

By ERIC JACKSON
Prep Writer

Closing out their regular season, the Lompoc Braves swim team upset the visiting Righetti Warriors yesterday, 54-41.

The win was the third this year by the Braves against eight losses while they finished with a 3-7 league mark.

Tony Hewes and Glen Green each won two events to lead Lompoc's efforts. Hewes, swimming the distance freestyle, took the 200 in 2:02.4 and won the 400 with a time of 4:33.6. Green settled for victories in the shorter races, winning the 100 freestyle (54.8) and the 100 breaststroke at which he was clocked in 1:14.6.

Bob MacKenzie, Butch Parker and Bill Czerwinski each won their events. MacKenzie flashed by with a 25.2 first place time in the 50 yard freestyle. Parker took the 100 butterfly (1:08.8) and Czerwinski topped the diving competition. The other Lompoc victory came in the 200 medley relay race as Parker, Green, Hewes and MacKenzie teamed for a 1:56.4 clocking.

The Braves will move into league preliminaries on April 23 and advance to the finals on April 26.

Gifts by Richardson, Mantle may give hint to future for Murcer

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baseball lockers are like family heirlooms.

They're not much to look at. Generally, $25 cash will buy everything in them on a good day, yet their owners take uncommon pride about who inherits them after they're gone.

The clubhouse men assign all the lockers and some still save those nearest the shower room for the biggest tipsters so they won't have to walk so far.

Pete Sheehy doesn't operate that way. He's been with the New York Yankees since Babe Ruth's day and there aren't any better clubhouse men around. The only tools he ever uses are experience, instinct and good common sense.

He has seen the lockers handed down from one generation to the next and they always were handed down under his supervision.

There was the case of Joe DiMaggio and Billy Martin, for example.

Billy liked to pal around with Joe when they both were with the Yankees and when it came time for DiMaggio to retire, Martin asked him whether he could have his locker. DiMaggio said sure; Martin told Sheehy what Joe had said, and Sheehy said it was perfectly okay with him, too.

Martin couldn't be happier.

He had hit the jackpot. Not only could he have the locker previously used by his idol, but it also was situated right next to the one being used by his best friend, Mickey Mantle.

But then Martin was traded by the Yankees and Mantle moved into Joe D's old locker, and when Mickey retired this spring the natural question was who would inherit it from him.

Sheehy asked Mantle whom he thought it should be and Mickey said he didn't know whereupon the Yankees' clubhouse man said, "what about Bobby Murcer?" and Mantle replied, "he was the one I was thinking of."

Bobby Murcer, 22, and recently returned from the Army, couldn't believe it when Sheehy told him he was getting Mantle's old locker this spring. Murcer had to ask Mickey himself in Fort Lauderdale.

"Is it true you want me to have your locker?" Murcer asked Mantle, with whom he played briefly before going into service on March 7, 1967.

"That's right," said Mickey. "I want you to have it."

Murcer didn't know what to say. He stammered his thanks and added:

"I hope I can do one-quarter as well as you did, Mickey."

If you know Mickey Mantle, then you know talk like that makes him turn pink all over, and if you've seen Bobby Murcer, you also know he's the closest the Yankees are going to come to another Mantle. For awhile, anyway.

The one thing Murcer and Mantle have in common is the state they come from. Bobby was born in Oklahoma City which makes him "big city" alongside Commerce, the town where Mickey was born.

Murcer can run but doesn't have Mantle's power. Then again, who does?

There was nothing wrong with the way Murcer operated in the Yanks' home opener against the Senators Tuesday, though. He celebrated his first game at Yankee Stadium since leaving for the Army by driving in four runs with a homer, double and a single which merely topped his batting average to .438 and his RBI total to 10.

Before he left for service, Murcer played shortstop for the Yanks and wore No. 17 on his back. Now he's playing third base and wearing No. 1 and a story goes with that, too.

"Bobby Richardson and I were kinda close," Murcer says. "Before I left the club he asked me if I would like to wear his uniform when I came back and I said I'd be proud to."

Richardson talked to Murcer about that in 1966 and the uniform was kept in mothballs one entire year while the Yankees' new third baseman was in the Army at Port Huachuca, Ariz.

Unsold collects cage 'grand slam'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wes Unsell pulled a grand slam in pro basketball this season.

Unsell, an All-American from Louisville who was the Baltimore Bullets first draft choice in the National Basketball Association, was accorded a third high honor Thursday when he was named to the NBA Coaches' all-rookie team. The selection was the only unanimous one made by the league coaches.

Elvin Hayes of the San Diego Rockets was named by 13 coaches, Bill Hewitt of the Los Angeles Lakers and Art Harris of the Seattle SuperSonics drew the praise of nine coaches and Gary Gregor of the Phoenix Suns was named on six ballots.

A total of 39 rookies played in the NBA this season, but only four others received more than one vote. Ron Williams of the San Francisco Warriors and Greg Smith of the Milwaukee Bucks garnered five votes each, while teammates Rick Adelman and Stu Lantz of San Diego were each named by three coaches.

SO YOU WANT TO BE ... Stew's Life Exciting, But Demanding

Interesting enough, this question from a young high school girl involves one of the occupations which former Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz listed recently as having the best employment outlook for the next several years.

DEAR SIR: I'm interested in becoming an airline stewardess, but don't know where to start. Please tell me something about the qualifications and duties of the job. —Sandy M., Waukegan, Ill.

Exciting and glamorous, the occupation affords opportunity to meet interesting passengers and see new, far-distant places.

Stewardesses or stewards (sometimes called flight attendants) are aboard almost all passenger planes operated by the commercial airlines. Their job is to make the passengers' flight safe, comfortable and enjoyable.

Like other flight personnel, stewardesses are responsible to the captain, and before each flight the stewardess attends the briefing of the flight crew. She sees that the passenger cabin is in order, that supplies and emergency passenger gear are aboard, and that necessary food and beverages are in the galley. As the passengers come aboard, she greets them, checks their tickets, and assists them with their coats and small luggage. On some flights she may sell tickets.

During the flight, the stewardess makes certain that passenger seat belts are fastened, and gives safety instructions when required. She answers questions about the flight, distributes reading matter and pillows, helps care for small children and babies, and keeps the cabin neat. On some flights she heats and serves meals that have been cooked previously and on others she may prepare, sell and serve cocktails.

After the flight, she completes flight reports.

Many thousands of stewardesses, but a fewer number of stewards, are employed by the scheduled airlines. About 80 per cent work with the domestic airlines and the remainder for international lines. Nearly all stewards are carried on overseas flights.

Airlines generally carry one to six flight attendants, but sometimes more, depending upon the size of the plane and what proportion of the flight is economy or first-class. Most flight attendants are stationed in major cities at the airlines' main bases. A few who serve on international flights are based in foreign countries.

Because stewardesses are in constant association with passengers, airlines place great stress on hiring young women who are attractive, poised, tactful and resourceful. As a rule, applicants must be 20 to 27 years old, 5-2 to 5-9, with weight in proportion to height (but not to exceed 140 pounds), and in excellent health. They also must have a pleasant speaking voice and good vision.

Applicants for stewardess' jobs must have at least a high school education. Those with two years of college, nurses' training or business experience in dealing with the public are preferred. Stewardesses who work for international airlines generally must be able to speak an appropriate foreign language fluently.

Most large airlines give newly hired stewardesses about five weeks' training in their own schools. Girls may receive free transportation to the training centers and also may receive an allowance while in attendance. Training includes classes in flight regulations and duties.

A STEWARDESS' LIFE is not always an easy one and training programs take into account some of the sticky problems that can develop. Trainees take the roles of drunks, women with children and a blind man with a seeing-eye "dog" in this mock-up of an "impossible" plenload of passengers.

company operations and schedules, emergency procedures and first aid, and personal grooming. Additional courses in passport and customs regulations are given trainees for the international routes. Toward the end of their training, students go on practice flights and perform their duties under actual flight conditions.

(A few airlines which do not operate their own schools may employ graduates who have paid for their own training. Girls interested in becoming stewardesses should check with the airline of their choice before entering a private school to be sure they have the necessary qualifications and that the school's training is acceptable.)

Immediately upon completing their training, stewardesses report for work at one of their airline's main bases. They serve on probation about six months, and an experienced stewardess usually works with them on their first flights.

As they acquire experience, they may advance to jobs as first stewardess or purser, supervising stewardess, stewardess instructor, or recruiting representatives.

Young women will have thousands of opportunities to get jobs as stewardesses each year in the immediate future and in the longer run. Total employment will grow rapidly as the result of the surging increases in passenger traffic.

Thousands of girls apply for this type of work each year, but despite the large number of applicants, the airlines find it difficult to obtain enough young women who can meet their high standards of attractiveness, personality and intelligence.

On jet flights, stewardesses with up to two years' experience can expect to earn $413 to $475 a month, based upon 80 hours of flight time. Those with two or more years' experience earn $475 to $567. Those on piston plane flights earn about $30 less. All stewardesses on domestic flights average about $466 a month in earnings, compared with about $555 for those on international flights.

But remember, however glamorous and exciting, the work can be strenuous and trying.

It is a bridge writer's privilege to select hands that show his bidding methods at their best.

Roth and Rubens have done this in "Modern Bridge Bidding Complete" but once in awhile they have slipped up a trifle. Today's hand is meant to illustrate two things. First is the Roth three-club response to a major-suit opening to show four trumps and 13 to 15 points in support.

Second is the theory of distribution which is that any time your partner fits one of your two suits, he is not going to show up with more than two cards in the other one.

Thus they recommend a Blackwood four no-trump with the South hand, followed by a jump to seven spades. It makes since North's four spades include both the queen and jack, and he has only two hearts.

We would prefer to have more information before we tried a grand slam and this

FT. SILL Lives in History

Ft. Sill troops fired the first atomic artillery round at Frenchman's Flat, May 25, 1953. The weapon, "Atomic Annie," is on display at the post museum's cannon walk.

THE 175mm GUN, the largest and longest-range artillery piece in the Army's inventory, is taught at Ft. Sill, the home of the U.S. Army Field Artillery School.

IN REVIEW, troops of the 5th and 7th Cavalry on Ft. Sill's Old Parade Ground in 1890.

Ft. Sill, Okla., is both a National Historic Landmark and the field artillery center of the United States. The thunder of the biggest weapons in the Army's 20th-century arsenal rolls from the firing ranges and resounds along streets lined with stone buildings where once echoed the 19th-century sounds of cavalry boots and Indian tongues. Throughout this year, Ft. Sill will celebrate its centennial—100 years of history and tradition going from horses to horsepower, from rifles to rockets.

WORLD WAR I troops load an 8-inch howitzer while training at Ft. Sill.

The secret meeting

The five elected members of the Lompoc City Council met Tuesday night to decide among themselves who was to be mayor of the city for the coming 12 months. Prior to conducting the election, the five members unanimously voted to meet in secret to discuss the matter.

The secret meeting was ruled "perfectly legal" by City Attorney James Longtin in answer to a question by City Councilman Art Scott. The press took exception to the ruling arguing that it appeared to violate the State's Brown Act (open meeting law). Despite the press criticism, the City Council members entered their secret session with the understanding that what they were doing was legal. On this basis, the five members could not be cited nor criticized. But the wisdom and morality of their action leave considerable room for debate.

The five Council members are accorded the right to vote by written secret ballot, a process which allows for dissent without personal embarrassment or coercion. The fact that a secret meeting was apparently necessary to discuss the various candidates leads many citizens to speculate on the subject matter.

All citizens view government behind closed doors with a jaundiced eye and well they should. While such meetings may be legal, they hardly demonstrate the democratic process which allows and invites the citizenry to be an integral part of the government which controls and regulates him.

We oppose secret government meetings in all but the most extreme cases. Government before the people is much preferred to government behind close doors.

Mirage or reform?

State Senator John G. Schmitz has probably worked as consistently as anyone in California to reduce the cost of state government. The other day he took exception to school opposition to a bill he is sponsoring which would require the public to vote on so-called tax overrides requested to maintain a standard of education in a local district not otherwise achievable. About two years ago the legislature voted to abolish the requirement that tax overrides be subject to popular vote.

Senator Schmitz' contention is that tax reform as proposed so far this year is more mirage than fact. He says that in the five years he has been in Sacramento he has "yet to see a 'tax reform' that actually reduced the overall burden in any major group of taxpayers, or even held it steady." The point would appear to be somewhat afield from the tax override bill the Senator is supporting, but in reality the philosophy inherent in the two subjects is similar and in fact the Senator and the "education lobby" with which he finds fault for opposing the bill have much the same goal.

To get any perspective on the subject it must be recalled that the last major tax reform measure to be enacted in California was in the early 1930's. The measure was called the Reilly-Stewart Act, and its purpose was to institute a state sales tax and, for all practical purposes to establish a formula whereby public schools would be financed about 50 per cent out of state sales tax revenues and 50 per cent out of local property taxes. Almost immediately thereafter, however, the state, faced with problems of growth and later of constant inflation, began shrugging off more and more of its share of school financing, forcing local districts to pick up a greater portion of the tab. In 1952 the teachers took an initiative measure to the voters which re-established a rough 50-50 sharing of school costs, but in a year or two the local taxpayer was getting it in the neck again.

What Senator Schmitz and the teachers might do in concert would be to work for meaningful tax reform, not the mirage the Senator correctly fears, and require the state to maintain a level of support for schools which would approximate 50 per cent of the load. On that basis the local property taxpayer could get relief.

Our Japanese cat

Ed Everett, our county sanitation supervisor, has brought us some information which leads us to believe that our old Tom cat is of Japanese origin.

The article is from the Angeles Nature Club and quotes a Dr. Shiro Nakagawa, director of the Ueno Zoo Hospital, as stating the Japanese cats are not catching rats because they are short-winded, diabetic and have high blood pressure.

The doctor says too much food, particularly high protein meat, has made cats fat, slow, soft and uncivilized. Satiated cats, he explains, are just not going to chase rats. In fact, in northern Japan it was reported that some big rats have been observed chasing cats.

Compounding the problem of over-eating, the cats are not getting enough exercise. Overeating and lack of exercise is actually causing diabetes and high blood pressure in the cats.

The doctor finally advises that if you want your cat to be healthy, don't permit him to doze all day in the living room, turning calories into fat.

The whole thing is a perfect description of our beast.

Get off the couch Rudy and work for your supper!

The following letter was received at the American Medical Association headquarters from the president of the American Motorcycle Association:

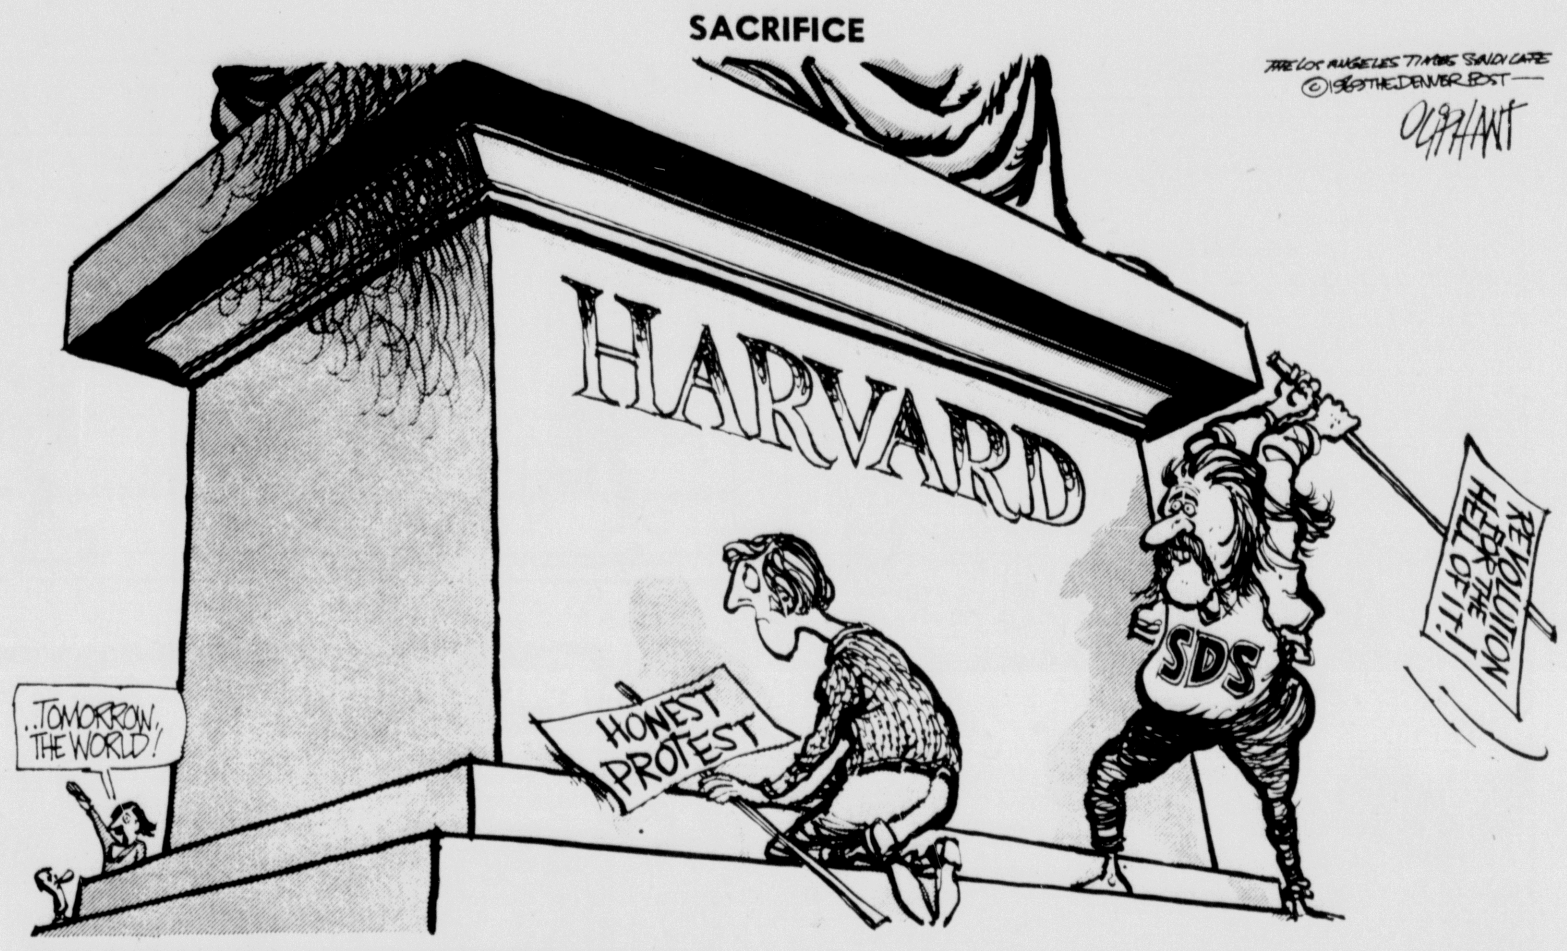

"It has been brought to my attention that your organization is using our initials. In fact, recently when I told someone that I belonged to the A.M.A., they thought I was a doctor.

"If you cannot refrain from the use of initials to describe your organization, please change the name of your group to the American Doctor's Association."

Well, we doubt if the doctors want to get mixed up with the motorcyclists anyway.

THOUGHTS WHILE SHAVING . . . Americans have stopped getting younger. The median age of 27.7 years remained unchanged in the period from July 1, 1967, to July 1, 1968. It is the first time in 15 years that it has not declined, according to the Census Bureau. A continuing decline of males in proportion to females is also shown. There were 96.6 males to 100 females in 1968, as compared with 97.8 males in 1960 and 99.2 in 1950 . . . That's quite a bit of dust blowing in the high winds of the lower valley . . . We liked the streamlining of the Academy Awards presentations but we didn't recognize any of the winners . . . If you believe in the vital Lompoc Narrows Dam project, let's tell our members of the County Water Agency Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the County Administrative Building in Santa Barbara!

Set to fight

JACKSON, Miss. (NEA) Gov. John Bell Williams' "regulars" and the nationally recognized "loyalist" Democrats are moving toward an early collision—with the courts the likely arena of battle.

The Williams wing is unquestionably the most estranged element of the Democratic party in the entire United States. Yet the loyalists candidly acknowledge that he and Mississippi's two senators, James Eastland and John Stennis, "still call the shots" in the state.

The loyalist leaders, Negroes Charles Evers and Aaron Henry, do not intend, however, that this supremacy shall go unchallenged for long.

There can be an early court test to decide which group is entitled to bear the label "Democratic." The loyalists are eager for it, and Williams says he wants it, too.

But if that issue somehow is not dealt with quickly, the clash will surely come no later than next spring.

Stennis seeks reelection in 1970. In Mississippi, such a candidate (the same goes for U.S. House candidates) must "qualify" before the state's party executive committee. The question this time will be: Which one?

Henry as state chairman heads the loyalist committee. Williams named his own under leadership of Leon Bramlett, Clarksdale.

Evers says flatly that if Stennis tries to "qualify" with the Williams committee, the loyalist will go to court immediately to bar him from running as a Democrat. The five congressional candidates would be similarly tested if they took that course.

The matter is not an easy one for Stennis to resolve. The word here is that he has been having talks about it with Democratic National Chairman, Fred Harris. The latter, indeed, is trying to straighten out the whole Mississippi mess so a 1972 Democratic presidential nominee will have some hope of carrying the state. Hubert Humphrey drew just 23 per cent of its 1968 vote total.

Right now the two contending factors are miles apart. Williams in an earlier interview said he and his supporters would not compromise, that the national party has "forced Mississippi to be an island unto itself."

Evers, speaking for the loyalists' view of the regulars, says:

"We're going after them . . . We're going to take it (power) from them legally and politically."

The loyalists' problem, aside from the special roadblocks thrown up by Williams, is the thinnest of their white support. There is some, including prosperous planters Oscar and Andrew Carr of Clarksdale and young Hodding Carter III, Greenville editor and publisher. But the numbers are relatively few.

One big hand-up, expressed often in private by Mississippians anxious for some sort of accommodation, is the fact that Evers and Henry are also top state leaders of the NAACP. It is argued that this gives the loyalist leadership a "civil rights" cast which inevitably makes it difficult to win more white support.

Some white loyalists think it was a mistake to name both Evers and Henry to top party positions, and that prospects of gaining white recruits would have been brighter with a white state chairman sharing authority with Evers, the national committeeman.

Evers rejects the notion that the leadership is weighted too heavily black and that its concurrent civil rights activity is a bar:

"They're not the Democrats if they're not willing to come in."

One Mississippi observer believes that the issue cannot begin to be settled until some potent elected white public official, like Stennis or perhaps Lt. Gov. Charles Sullivan, the present favorite to succeed Williams in 1971, moves toward the loyalists.

At the same time, it is contended that such a move would prove fruitless, if it did not pull large numbers of presently unsympathetic whites along. For that to happen, it is said, the Evers-Henry faction must be receptive to many who still may be segregationist in outlook.

Meet you at the library

The new city library on East North Avenue has become a mecca for community meetings in a way that has surprised everyone, except for Paul Thompson, librarian.

Paul had it figured this way.

Since the city facility opened on March 10, 15 groups with a total of nearly 800 people have used the new multipurpose room and the traffic is increasing, according to figures now on the books.

The groups that have already used the attractive setting run the gamut from girls' organizations to investment seminars to bicycle clubs and you name it, if the organization is in the Valley it'll get around to the library sooner or later.

Already through the friendly doors of the library's multi-purpose room are Boy Scouts, Babe Ruth League, Lompoc Music Association, Jaycees, Lompoc Democratic Club, Arguello Sierra Club, U.S. Agriculture Research Service, Lompoc Bicycle Club, American Association of University Women, Fiesta Committee, Prepared Childbirth Class, City Employees Association, Lompoc Valley Association for Retarded Children, Girl Scouts, Brownies.

Open evenings in the immediate future are also going fast, according to Paul. New participants include some of those that have already met there and such groups as Lompoc Valley Chess Club, Lompoc Valley Art Association, the library's Black - Gold area meeting, and Missillettes.

ADD NOTES: How time goes by. During the week beginning May 5, the school system will register a new crop of earthlings, more commonly known as kindergartners. . .

Lou Rubinstein is currently steering the Lompoc Valley Safety Council through the difficult negotiations aimed at solving the traffic problem at the Wye intersection and a thorny and dangerous traffic problem at the SP tracks and North A Street. The two locations have been accident-ridden. It was relatively easy to gain publicity for the safety efforts at the time of an accident, but after a little while public apathy sets in again. . .

I wonder if we have a resurgence of commercial building after a lull. There are five or six new restaurants abuilding at the moment and maybe if we're lucky General Telephone Co., will get started on their fine new structure on Central Avenue. . .

The signs of the Great Flood of '69 are still with us. Corps of Engineers people have been building a 1,000 foot-long revetment to protect the city's sewer plant on Central Avenue. . .

It's not very exciting news compared with a missile launch, but the news that 25 Valley scholars have won scholarships is news of a particularly gratifying nature. . .

The American Association of University Women will hold a "Meet the Author's" session in the library Sunday 2 p.m., in observance of National Library Week. A group of successful authors will be on hand to discuss their craft. . .

National Schools Week will get under way Monday with openhouse sessions in the district's 18 schools. . .

The police department's patrol cars now have pusher bars installed on the front ends. They're for use if your car stalls in the middle of the street. . .

Vern Copeland, city planning commissioner, is in the midst of forming a Friends of Lompoc Valley Chess Club. The organization is for those who want to promote chess. And there are some exciting events in store, according to Vern. . .

Letters to the editor

Dear Sir:

The members of the board of directors and the many volunteers of the Lompoc Valley Chapter, American Red Cross wish to express our appreciation to the Lompoc Record for its cooperation and support throughout the year and especially during our recent "balance of need" campaign.

We gratefully thank everyone who has responded to our appeal for financial assistance during the current Red Cross month of March. To date we have collected just over $500.00.

We — you and the Red Cross — have many joint responsibilities. You know that these responsibilities pertain not only to the servicemen and their families, but also to our participation in such programs as first aid, life saving and watersafety, mother and baby care, nurses aides, hospital assistance, etc. You know about the large number of volunteers involved in our local programs and the countless hours they contribute. You know that the better job we do, the more it costs.

Red Cross is responsible for food, shelter and basic maintenance and recovery assistance for disaster victims. In our recent local floods thirteen families were assisted, costing $5,000.

Anyone wishing to contribute may send a check to the office, 521 East Ocean Ave.

Sincerely,
Richard G. Brown
Chapter Chairman

I would like to "Warmly Thank" all the people who voted for me April 15, 1969. It made me feel so proud knowing they wanted me on the school board. I feel I did very well when you take into consideration my age, little time in area, low voter turn out, and the fact I did it on my own without help because I wanted it myself. This has given me the experience, education and I got my feet wet, so to speak. I'm not stopping here. Again Thank You "you wonderful people."
Yours Truly,
Dorothy Dial
